Lewis, Dawson,
In Deadlock Over
Welfare Control

Fail To Reach Decision On
Control Of 100-Million

NO PROGRESS ON WAGE CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Union Chief John L. Lewis and coal industry representative Charles I. Dawson stood deadlocked today in a battle over control of the miners' 100-million-dollar annual welfare fund.

The United Mine Workers' president and the former Federal Judge from Louisville, Ky., have fought over the fund since Dawson was appointed to represent the industry on its board of trustees. The third party in the fight is in Styles Bridges (R. N. H.), the federal board member.

Lewis won the first two rounds when, as chairman of the board of trustees, he refused to allow Dawson to vote and participate in decisions.

Can't Resume Payments
But he lost to the extent that he has been unable to resume benefit payments to retired miners, their wives and families.

The welfare fund controversy is part and parcel of the UMW's seven-month negotiating stalemate with mine operators over a new wage contract to replace the agreement which expired last June 30.

Lewis has called the miners out on strike four times this year in his effort to win an improved new contract but thus far the industry has resisted his demands.

The operators assert privately that the union chief will surrender some of his power to call strike at will and agree to tighter control on the welfare fund, which will be business with him—but not more.

Revision Is Needed
One high-ranking industry official declared that if Lewis will revise the welfare fund operations to guarantee that the money is not being improperly dissipated and (Continued on Page Two)

Herb Taylor, of R. D. 4 (The Elms), reports that he shot a four-point buck weighing 110 pounds three miles outside of Kane during the week.

George Watters and son, Donald, of 618 East Washington street, have returned from a hunting trip in the vicinity of Austin, Potter county. On Monday afternoon about 1:15 George got a 10-point buck. Donald shot his four-point deer on Tuesday afternoon about 2:45 o'clock. The game animals weigh about 165 pounds each.

Charles Two, of 258 Smithfield street, reports having bagged an eight-point buck on Monday morning at Kane, which weighed 140 pounds. He got back Thursday.

With restrictions lifted for outdoor holiday lighting effects this holiday season, it is probable that there will be many beautiful home displays again this year. For some years, conditions have been such that holiday out-of-doors lighting effects were barred.

Apparently Aliquippa is to be the center of operations for the census taking in the Lawrence Beaver and Butler districts in 1950 that city having been named as headquarters for the work.

In U. M. W. Welfare Fund Deadlock

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Judge Charles I. Dawson (left) and Senator Styles Bridges (R. N. H.) are interviewed by reporters after three-hour meeting of the UMW Welfare and Retirement Fund Trustees Friday. Lewis refused again to seat Dawson as a trustee, and no agreement was reached on resuming fund payments.

Plan Crackdown On State Tax Evaders

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(INS)

—Twin crackdowns on cigarette bootlegging and low-tax gasoline running into Pennsylvania from surrounding states were readied today by state and Philadelphia police.

In cooperation with the State Department of Revenue, the dual drives will be aimed at smothering a multi-million dollar business in illicit sales.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars in unpaid taxes due the commonwealth will be collected in a campaign which police indicated would rival the early days of the prohibition era.

Department of Revenue spokesman said most of the cigarettes are being smuggled into Pennsylvania by hundreds of "bootleggers" from Virginia and Maryland.

The low-tax gasoline is pouring into the state chiefly from New Jersey, where the tax rate is three cents per gallon lower than in Pennsylvania.

It has been estimated that the cigarette-smuggling alone has cost the commonwealth nearly $8,000,000 in taxes.

Business Block

Over Thousand Dollars Damage Results From Seventh Ward Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin, which was discovered in the Solomon News stand at 116 North Liberty street, at 10:25 p.m., Friday, caused damage of around $1,100 before it was brought under control. Assistant Chief Norman A. McFarland reported today.

The fire in its early stage, is believed to have gotten into lighter fluid stored on a shelf, causing a tremendous puff of flame, which blew out the windows.

When Seventh ward firemen arrived at the scene, only a half block away from the fire station, the entire interior of the store was ablaze. An alarm from Box 715 summoned five companies to the scene.

The blaze did some damage to the Isaly store at 114 North Liberty street, next door to the news stand, which is located at the corner of North Liberty and East Cherry streets, and also did some damage to the apartments occupied by the Peter Groce family, above the news stand.

Report Is Given

On page 9 of today's News, a complete report of the funds of the Jameson Memorial Expansion Fund is shown. The report shows money pledged, money received, and the disposition of the money, pending the start of construction of the addition. This will probably occur early next spring.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(INS)—State department officials were cautiously jubilant today as U. S. Consul General Angus Ward and his staff prepared for "deportation" from Mukden, China, after six months of battling to get of Chinese communist hands.

Their caution was based on previous annoying experiences with the Mukden communists.

Despite a red announcement that the U. S. diplomats "must" leave Mukden by 8 a. m. (local time) Monday (7 p. m. EST Sunday), there was a fear in Washington that new obstacles might be thrown in the way to cause last-minute "loss of face."

The communists have held the Americans under virtual house arrest since they took over the city 13 months ago.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(INS)—The nation's 400,000 soft coal miners marked time today in preparation for a return to the pits on Monday on a three-day work-week basis.

Charges Uranium
Flown To Russia
On Hopkin's Order

By CHARLES B. SEIB
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A former air force inspection officer's charge that the late Harry Hopkins ordered hundreds of pounds of uranium and A-bomb secrets flown to Russia touched off a new atomic controversy in Washington today.

Maj. George Racey Jordan made his accusation last night in a radio interview with commentator Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Jordan declared that he saw armed Soviet guards place "suitcase loads" of secret American documents and A-bomb ingredients aboard Russia-bound lend-lease planes in 1943 and 1944.

Jordan, now vice-president of the American Pacific Industrial Corp., claimed that the vital data and material were flown from Great Falls, Mont., where he served as inspection officer.

Submitted Report
He said he submitted a report on his observations to the inspector-general of the air force Gen. Junius Jones. Lewis added he had verified this.

Report Many Sicilians Flee
In Panic From Erupting
Volcano Area

CATANIA, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Hot molten lava pouring from erupting Mt. Etna swept slowly today toward nearby Sicilian towns from which many civilians fled in panic.

Frequent earth tremors were felt as the mass of lava crept down the sides of the mountain at a snail's pace of two kilometers (one and a quarter miles) an hour.

Citrus fruit groves above Pisacario Pass were in the path of creeping molten mass and just below them are a half dozen villages.

Only 18 miles south of the 10,741 peak—Europe's highest volcano—is Catania, a city of 250,000 population.

Sicilian police and Italian troops were rushed to the area to maintain order and assist evacuation.

Budget Is Set

Calls For Appropriations Of $1,109,551.35 For Operating City In 1950

PROPERTY TAX RATE
TO REMAIN 10 MILLS

Finance Director Albert A. Hoyland, shortly before noon today, released tentative appropriations for the operation of the city government in 1950, which show a decrease of $97,553.16, from the amounts appropriated in 1949.

The appropriations for 1950 amount to $1,011,998.19. For 1949, there was appropriated, $1,109,551.35.

The money for next year will be raised by a property tax for general revenue of 8 1/4 mills, plus a 6 1/2 mills levy on wages.

The $1,109,551.35 for 1949, was raised by an eight-mill property tax levy, plus a 10-mills wage tax levy.

By agreement, the School Board next year will get 3 1/2 mills of the 1950 wage tax levy, of 10 mills.

Same Tax Rate
The proposed tax millage for 1950 is 10 mills, the same as in 1949, and is divided as follows:

For general revenue purposes, 8 1/4 mills; sinking fund, 1 1/4 mill, and library 1/2 mill. This shows one-fourth mill added for general revenue purposes in 1950 and one-fourth mill cut from the (Continued on Page Two)

District Officials Say Lewis' Orders Will Be Obeyed
By Miners

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—(INS)—The nation's 400,000 soft coal miners marked time today in preparation for a return to the pits on Monday on a three-day work-week basis.

District officials of the United Mine Workers said that the diggers' return for work Monday "with good grace."

Union officers said the men have shown no signs of rebellion nor discontent over the prospect of a limited Christmas because of the cut in pay entailed in the short-trial operators' schedule. They denied the "broken-hearted" over the "callous attitude" of John L. Lewis.

Ceiling On Size
Of National Labor
Unions Is Urged

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Dec. 3.—(INS)—A ceiling on the size of national labor unions was urged last night by H. W. Prentiss, Jr., Lancaster industrialist, in a speech to regional members of the State Chamber of Commerce.

"The American citizen would be far less likely to have his welfare interfered with by railroad strikes and coal strikes and steel strikes and strikes in basic industries if limited size to the point where they could not exercise monopolistic power over the whole economy," Prentiss declared.

There were indications today that the President again will call for tax increases when the Congress convenes. The threat of a business recession six months ago has disappeared, and the nation's economy appears to be in good order.

But opinion was growing that the funds needed would not be found and that a new decision on a headquarters site would have to be made.

The balloting on an alternative site—probably Washington or New York—might be taken at the present meeting or, more likely, at a special meeting in 1950.

The special meeting, it was said, would be convened for the express purpose of reconsidering Rome as the permanent site of the organization.

A solution of the dilemma suggested by some delegates would be an advance payment by the U. S. of its 1951 contribution amounting to $1,250,000.

Some delegates believe that in view of U. S. interest in struggling Democratic government of Italy, this country might be moved to pay its 1951 installment ahead of time.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(INS)—The United Nations food and agriculture conference was faced today by a potent argument against its decision to make Rome its permanent headquarters—lack of funds.

A drafting committee was named earlier this week to suggest ways and means to obtain an estimated two and a half million dollars needed for the transfer, and it is due to report today to a 62-nation commission.

Searchers who have been hunting in the chilly waters of the Tionesta dam reservoir for the body of Richard Harding, aged 39 years, of R. D. 1, Wampum, who with three other hunters was drowned when their boat sank while crossing the half-mile stretch above the dam, ended their quest this morning at 11:25 o'clock, when the body was recovered, state police at Tionesta stated at noon today.

Word of the discovery was flashed here immediately, and the body will be brought to Cunningham's Funeral Home, Mr. Cunningham having departed for the dam site about an hour previous to the finding of the body, and was prepared to bring it back in event it was found.

Recovered By Tionesta Men
The body was recovered by Paul Weaver and Harley Wilson, two Tionesta men, who had been assisting with the search, and was found about 75 feet from the north shore, near the spot where the boat had departed from in its attempt to cross the dam. Wilson is a U. S. engineer stationed at the dam. It is stated.

The men were working from a boat when they recovered the body. It was in the channel where the dam is situated.

President Truman Is Preparing His Annual Message

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

U. S. SUB BASE, KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 3.—President Truman strove today to bring order to the nation's budget against the extraordinary demands of emergency defense and aid-to-the-democracies expenditures.

The Chief Executive, ostensibly vacationing, devoted considerable time to preparation of his State of the Union message.

He will deliver this highly important summation of the nation's policy to the Congress in person a day or so after it convenes on the first Monday of next month.

Mr. Truman is faced with the problem of a constantly increasing federal expenditure, against last year's decrease in tax revenue following the four billion-dollar plus tax slash of the 80th Congress.

There were indications today that the President again will call for tax increases when the Congress convenes. The threat of a business recession six months ago has disappeared, and the nation's economy appears to be in good order.

But opinion was growing that the funds needed would not be found and that a new decision on a headquarters site would have to be made.

Five Year Old "Salt Bowl Game" Queen

HUTCHINSON, KANS.—Sponsoring Junior Chamber of Commerce members decided, "To heck with bowl queen chesscake," and went out and chose Judith Ann Streeter, 5, shown here, queen of third annual Salt Bowl game to be played here today between Hutchinson Jr. college, Kansas co-champs, and Northeastern Oklahoma A. and M. of Miami, Okla., champs. Girl is youngest ever chosen to reign over a bowl game.

Seventeen of the injured were admitted to the university infirmary for treatment. Two others were taken to municipal hospital.

A spokesman in the university president's office said "two or three others" suffered burns, but were not hospitalized.

Two Critically Injured
Infirmary officials said the two critically injured were students Max David Clary, Buckner, Ark., and John H. Sorenson, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Both were given plasma in an attempt to save their lives. The other youths, including two not immediately identified and believed to be visitors in the dormitory, were reported in "good" condition.

The identified injured included: Robert Klinko, Binghamton, N. Y.; Victor H. Harvey, Englewood, N. J.; (tentative identification); and Jack Schnepps, Mario G. Guaganti, Robert King, and Gene Lichtenstein, all of New York City.

Nearly 300 In Quarters
University spokesmen said there were nearly 300 men in the former Navy officers' quarters at the time of the fire broke out about 3 a.m. Students who escaped the flames told of seeing other residents race through the hallways in panic.

Many of the youths lost practically all their possessions in the fire and were given temporary shelter at fraternity houses in other dormitories. Officials said there probably would be no interruption in regular class schedules.

University spokesmen said it was impossible to give an estimate of loss immediately. They explained the building was being maintained by the university for the Navy. It was occupied by students under a "revocable permit."

To Seek Unified
Laws To Control
Loads On Trucks

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 3.—(INS)—Highway department officials from 13 eastern and midwestern states will meet in Columbus on Monday for the second postwar round of a battle for a series of unified laws to control truck loads.

Ohio highway director T. J. Kauer, who called the conference, feels the key to the struggle against overloads which are tearing up roads and bridges faster than ever before, lies in just one simple word—"agreement."

This would mean agreement on a group of provisions which would be considered objectives to be written into the laws of the participating states.

Former Conferences Fail
Two similar regional conferences at Reno, Nev., in 1938, and at Boston last spring, have failed. However, Kauer figures this one might succeed because the need for adequate truck control is more urgent now than ever.

The director says today's big road crushers, along with normal depreciation, are destroying highways and bridges faster than they can be rebuilt. Furthermore, an eight-year New Jersey study shows road repair in an area with heavy truck traffic costs from two to seven times more than it does in a district with few big trucks.

Overloading is one big problem, Kauer said.

Nineteen other persons among the 326 residents were injured.

Chief of Police Dub Wheeler, of Norman, said he was fairly certain that no more bodies were in the debris of the $425,000 building.

Wheeler pointed out that the bodies were badly burned and dental records would probably have to be used for identification purposes.

NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 3.—(INS)—Nineteen persons were injured today, two critically, when fire destroyed a men's dormitory on the University of Oklahoma's south campus at Norman.

University officials said after an early check that all of the estimated 300 residents appeared to have escaped from the two-story wooden building.

Seventeen of the injured were admitted to the university infirmary for treatment. Two others were taken to municipal hospital.

Reunion Party Of Consistory Is Held Last Evening

Splendid Program Is Presented
In Cathedral For Members
And Ladies

With a large number of members and ladies present, despite the adverse weather conditions, the fall Reunion Party of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, held Friday evening proved an enjoyable event, with a program of outstanding merit at the Cathedral.

Lewis A. Pearsall, of the entertainment committee, in behalf of Commander in Chief C. Merle Raisley, welcomed the guests, after a preliminary program as the audience was assembling, and introduced Ed. Shaughnessy as Master of Ceremonies.

Ernest E. Branstetter and his daughter, Constance, presented a group of duet numbers on the organ and piano, which were outstanding.

The Belmont Brothers proved exceptional jugglers, and Eleanor True, contortionist, was also outstanding. The Royal Guards, a male quintet, sang a group of numbers, including stage hits and opera, which was also tops.

The program was concluded with a talk by Frank (Bring them back alive) Buck, who has been one of the country's live animal hunters during the past two decades.

Mr. Buck related a number of his experiences and hairbreadth escapes, and then showed talking pictures of the wilds and scenes incident to the capture of these ferocious which inhabit the tropical areas of the world.

Group singing was led during the early part of the program by Dave Rees, Consistory chorister, a group of Christmas songs being sung.

Members of the recent class and their ladies were special guests.

The discovery of the Barrowdale graphite mine at Cumberland, England, led to the use of the lead pencil, around 1560.

branch of P.S.E.A., stated, "I have a story to tell... a story of a woman who has contributed much to the teaching profession. Well known nationally and internationally, she is a Smith college graduate and received her master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Besides holding offices in many educational departments, she has served as president of the National Department of Classroom Teachers. Visiting Great Britain, she was one of four American educators who were the guests of the British government while studying the effect of the war on their school system." Miss Brown then presented Miss Studenbaker with a gift from the group.

Work Together

"Much good can be accomplished by working together," stated Miss Studenbaker, "and you'll find that it is worthwhile doing. In the public schools we can see what is being accomplished, and we are ready to accept any responsibility that comes with teaching. Children should not only be prepared to live in his community, but anywhere in the world. It is a teacher's duty to see that this is done."

Greetings were extended by the Superintendent of New Castle schools, Dr. Frank L. Burton. Dr. Burton introduced the school board and new board members.

Miss Vernice E. Saeger, president-elect of the Mid-Western district, expressed her appreciation to the local branch of the P.S.E.A. for the aid given in the past.

Speaks For School Board

Dr. Wilbur Flannery, representing the school board, said, "It is important to honor a leader. We need leadership, leadership needs cooperation... cooperation needs understanding... understanding needs dynamic philosophy. By honoring a leader, you are also honoring any potential leaders."

The Parent-Teacher presidents of the city were introduced by Orlando Lucidore, teacher at Pollock school and president of the school's P.T.A.

Miss Martin expressed her thanks to the social committee for the work done, and introduced Miss Ruth Lewis, chairman of the social committee. The head dental hygienist of the Pittsburgh Public schools, Mrs. Thomas E. Maher, was then presented by Miss Lewis. Mrs. Maher's topic was "The 'Happy' Way to Dental Health."

Dogs Help

"When Pittsburgh employed its dental hygienists, it also received dogs to help with the work," stated Mrs. Maher. "Dental work had to be started early with the young children, and they are first taught not to fear dentists. Proper use of a tooth brush and care of the teeth is stressed, beginning at the kindergarten age and extending through the high school."

"To help me with my work, I have 'Happy' the health dog. He is known to 100,000 children, been guest on television, and met many famous personalities."

Mrs. Maher has the group pretend they are of kindergarten age, and conducts a health class for that age group. "First let me introduce Tommy Molar," says Mrs. Maher. This proves to be a puppet, and she demonstrates how a child should clean his "Tommy Molars."

Happy's wardrobe is shown, which includes many clever miniature costumes. Happy the puppet appears, and with unique movements and manipulations of her hands, Mrs. Maher questions Happy about his own teeth and how the boys and girls should care for theirs. Touches of humor spice her entertaining and educational talk. Although the audience is pretending to be children, the discussion is of such a nature that those present are learning many ways in which to present material to their own pupils.

The light, quick dialogue keeps the entire assemblage interested, and reluctantly the program was brought to a close.

farm half a mile north of King's Chapel. After bringing his deer in, he saw four more just a few feet from the house. It was Edwin's first deer.

Joseph Hudak, 103 North Walnut street, and Mike Hudak, R. D. 9, returned home this week from Emporium with a deer apiece to their credit. Joe had a four-point 123-pound buck, while Mike claimed an eight-point 140-pound buck.

Ornamental Christmas lights in the South Mill street section were burning brightly in the vicinity of the Mill street bridge about 8 o'clock this morning. The lights in other parts of the downtown had been extinguished by that time.

Boys were following a very dangerous practice in the Pearson street section on Friday evening. The lads would wait for a car to ascend the hill from Washington street and then fasten themselves on the rear bumper of the car. Serious accidents could happen if the practice is continued.

Both city and county cinderling crews were kept busy for some time on Friday evening as they worked on the hills about the city and county. Traffic was snarled in many sections and moved only when the ashes were placed on the street surfaces.

With many paper and plastic curtains in use now local residents should plan carefully as to where they will place their Christmas tree which will be erected in a short time in the homes. Hot bulbs from the trees could easily cause a bad fire if it would ignite the flimsy curtains and decorations.

Both Harry Colley and his son Jack, city firemen, were successful in bagging nice young bucks in the vicinity of Nebraska, on Monday. Both were four-points.

Another of the backyard hunters, is Woody Cowher, R.D. 1, Edenburg, who bagged a five point, 150-pound buck at the Harbor on Friday afternoon. He spent about two hours searching for his prey.

Jim Cole of 110 East Long avenue shot a 180-pound 7-point buck Thursday in Kane, Pa. Cole had been hunting for 20 minutes that day when he spotted the deer.

LEWIS, DAWSON IN DEADLOCK OVER WELFARE CONTROL

justify his demands for more money, the operators might be willing to add ten cents to their present 20-cents-a-ton contribution to the program.

So far Lewis has refused to make these concessions.

The operators' main weapon is that welfare benefits have been cut off since mid-September to thousands of miners. They are counting on the pressure of this situation to force Lewis "to be reasonable."

The fund stopped all benefits except emergency hospital cases two months ago because it was running out of money collected under the old 1948 contract. Even the bills for 795 hospital cases, costing $400,000 a month, have not been paid for October and November.

The coal operators are continuing to pay their royalties to the welfare fund and it has received more than 11 million dollars since the old contract elapsed last June 30.

However, Bridges and Ezra Van Horn, Dawson's predecessor, voted not to use the 1949 money until a new agreement is signed.

While brunets thrive best in climates where there is an abundance of sunlight, blonds tend to die out or move to more suitable climates.

DEFICIT SPENDING

President Truman regards the recent victory of Governor Lehman, in New York, in his race for the United States Senate, as an approval by the people of his Fair Deal spending policy.

But in localized elections like that in New York personalities cut the biggest figure. Governor Lehman had thrice been governor of his state and is well known by the voters. Senator Dulles had never run for public office before. With the endorsement of the Liberal Party Governor Lehman won by less than 200,000 because of an overwhelming Democratic vote in New York City which came out because of the majority elections.

Moreover, figures of spending by the Fair Deal administration are so staggering that few people yet realize their extent. But if the administration keeps up during this fiscal year like it has started we will have a deficit at the end of the year ranging from 6 to 8 billion dollars. A press wire said recently:

"Government has cost the taxpayers $12,000,000,000 for the first 15 weeks of this fiscal year. The Treasury is about $2,000,000,000 in the red for this period despite the labor of taxpayers who are paying a greater sum into the Treasury in this fiscal year than in the corresponding period last year. . . . If government costs had been held to last year's figure so far in the new fiscal year, there would now be a fat surplus of nearly $500,000,000 in the first 15 weeks.

"There were times between World Wars I and II when $12,000,000,000 would have paid all the costs of government for three years instead of for only 15 weeks as at the present. In 1914, the year in which World War I began, the entire costs of the U. S. Government was $735,081,000. Now it costs more than that to run the government for a single week.

"A minority group of Republicans and Democrats (in Congress) believes in spending at the present rate shortly will destroy the system under which America lives. If it were destroyed, some other would replace it. It would be Socialism, Fascism, Communism or something with a new name. Communists always have smugly contended that a capitalistic democracy must perish because inevitably it will spend itself to death."

THREAT TO PEACE

There was a time when nations formally declared war on one another before firing a shot, but that is history. Mussolini, the Japs and Hitler preferred to fire first. The Moscow reds do not declare war at all—they declare a revolution.

The plotters in the Kremlin press a switch, whereupon every communist party member in the world mechanically starts doing everything in his power to destroy the government Russia has named as enemy.

These plotters, years ago, threw the switch on the United States, but today the foreign minister of the Soviet Union wanders about the United States, free to go where he will, to do what he pleases, under no surveillance by local, state or federal authorities.

Now Russia has pressed another switch. The cominform, representing the communist parties of Russia and her satellites, announces that it has passed a resolution calling on all communists everywhere to "give their utmost help" toward overthrowing the government of Yugoslavia.

How will this operate? Communists are a highly disciplined group of robots. They take orders and follow them.

The cominform order asks all communists to help "the Yugoslav workers' class and working peasantry in their fight for the return of Yugoslavia into the camp of democracy and socialism." What fight? There has been no revolt against Tito in Yugoslavia. The clear inference is that one will be arranged.

Outside communists will then join the rebels as "volunteers." Russia, of course, will disclaim all responsibility. This is the pattern set by Hitler and Mussolini in Spain, and copied by Stalin in Greece.

The cominform resolution constitutes gross interference in the internal affairs of Yugoslavia. Tito is no lily, but the clearest issue here is the freedom of Yugoslavia from foreign domination. The same issue (before Serbia became part of Yugoslavia) started World War I.

ALL-AMERICAN BOOKS

The value of arbitrary lists of "great books," particularly as a substitute for a college curriculum, continues to stir up academic arguments. Quite understandably books by Americans are somewhat scarce on a list of all-time greats. Until recent years the U. S. contained a very small percentage of the world's population.

But the reading and study of the best books written by Americans ought to have a peculiar value for other Americans. Books by foreigners, however great by foreign standards, represent an attempt to communicate ideas to persons whose backgrounds were enormously different from that of Americans.

A good way to offset the effects of such disconcerting variations in emphasis is to know everything about the historical setting of every great book one reads. As that is a practical impossibility, a better way is to spend plenty of time on the best American authors.

There is a movement for free spelling in Britain. Many a high school graduate is already a convert.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

A bold new experiment in the administration of post-war Germany is in the making today, and it may show once and for all whether or not the nation on the Rhine is fitted for a place in the Democratic scheme of things.

The Allied high commission for western Germany has repealed an occupation statute restricting the number and nature of political parties in the country.

Originally, it was designed to prevent any resurgence of nationalism in Germany.

But U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy virtually admitted that it has failed of its purpose.

Nationalism on Rise
He said quite frankly that nationalism is on the rise in Germany and confessed himself unable to stipulate definitely whether this stems from healthy patriotism or sinister opportunism.

In any case, his decision seems to have been to allow the German political mentality to find its own level and then deal with it as the occasion demands.

This far-reaching move means that to all intents and purposes some beatific might revive the dogma of toothbrush moustaches and crooked although any such outright movement would condemn it to death from the start.

But McCloy's step at least will take German nationalism out of the manifold disguises in which it has been hiding since the end of the war.

Good Impression
The western German government established at Bonn, which is taking its place openly in international affairs, obviously has made a good impression upon the Allied powers.

But in contrast to its seemingly sincere attempts to win the respect and favor of the western world, there are numerous splinter groups in Germany that up to now have acted more or less under cover.

Now they presumably must declare themselves openly or go out of business. Some of the factions are composed of disgruntled ex-army men. Others are made up of youths imbued not only with political ambitions and a desire for the soft jobs of German bureaucracy but who still sing the songs of German expansion.

The latter trend was shown clearly in a high commission poll of several thousand Germans. For the records, virtually all of them rejected outright national socialism on Hitlerian lines. But the vast majority said that Germany is entitled to—and should have back—all of Silesia and East Prussia, which are no longer in German hands, and should have even Austria.

Can Crush Nationalism
It was clear from the announcement of McCloy's decision that the Allies are convinced they can crush any potentially dangerous nationalism at its outset.

The old system of denazification has come to an end. But a close check is being kept on all political activities and this control presumably is being extended to any clandestine moves which might suddenly spring into dangerous action.

It is inevitable that German restoration to a place in international affairs on a basis of at least near-equality should encourage extremist elements into soaring ambitions.

The new Allied plan seems to be based upon belief that if rewards are given to a peaceful Germany, those elements wishing to go beyond the limits of the law will be discredited by their own people.

This is borne out by the speed with which the Allies have implemented the Bonn protocol signed last week.

On behalf of the German government, the Allied high commission has applied to the international Ruhr authority to admit Bonn to membership. Steps are under way for formation of a German "diplomatic corps" which will represent the new regime in foreign capitals for trade and commercial purposes.

German shipbuilding is getting under way again, and Bonn spokesmen are appealing to Great Britain not to handicap in any way Germany's desire to resume her North and Baltic sea commerce as a great spur to the national economy and a lessening of financial burdens of the Allies.

It is clear that a rash move by any sizeable extremist group would undo in a moment all the gains that have been granted to western Germany even before conclusion of a peace treaty. McCloy apparently feels that his new policy will smother out trouble-makers before they can do any real damage.

EARLY WARNING

"Want to know something Pop?" said he.
As I was chatting with his dad. As though important news for me. Immediately to tell he had.
"Yes," I replied, "I'd like to hear just what I haven't learned, as yet."
"Electric trains," said he, "this year are going to be hard to get."

"You know the boy who plays with me?"
I nodded. "Well, he said the strike made steel so short he'll lucky be who manages to get a bike. And, there is something more he told."
His father just found out somehow.
Soon the last scooter will be sold. It's hard to find one even now."

"H-mmm," I replied: "That's startling news."
You're right. It's something I should know.

Plainly I have not time to lose: Already scooter stocks are low! December, and the bikes are few. And little time to buy remains. This warning I'll remember, too: It's hard to get electric trains!"

State Police Say:

Looking through a mud-splattered windshield a driver gets a distorted view of the road ahead. An approaching car with bright lights, or only one light, adds to the hazard and confusion, and the driver is hard put to accurately judge whether he is on his side of the road. This hazard can be eliminated by keeping your windshield wipers in good working order and if the wiping edge of the blade has deteriorated, replace it.

Among the current pathetic cases is one of a man knocked senseless while gathering egg sized hailstones in a cocktail shaker.

British Labor Party 50 Years Old

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Far more than most peoples, these islanders are conscious of history. Early in 1901 will come an anniversary that is certain to hold the interest of all Britons. On February 3 the British Labor party will be 50 years old.

When you sit in the narrow galleries of the House of Commons, you look down on rank after rank of Labor members. They fill the red-leather benches on the majority side. For nearly five years they have run the government and almost everyone, including many of the opposition, seems to feel that at next year's election they will be returned to office for another five years.

It is hard to believe that this powerful organization began only half a century ago. Harder still to realize is that the man who sits in the No. 1 position, with his feet on the big table separating opposition and government benches, has come of age with the party.

Sums Up Party's History
Prime Minister Clement Attlee sums up a lot of the party's history. He is typical of the middle-class men and women who stepped across the gap in the early days to become part of the earnest movement dedicated to enrolling the laboring class in a political party that would gain for that class of the right of the mass.

Attlee joined up just after he left Oxford. As he recollects it, he was the first university man to take such a daring step. The struggling party was then eight years old and still without a single member in the House of Commons. Hardly a party, it was, in a phrase Attlee uses, merely a "collection of discontent."

It included pacifists, anti-vivisectionists, professional vegetarians, idealists and crackpots of every variety. But it also included bold and determined men who were convinced that Britain must go along the road of Democratic Socialism.

Believes Road Followed

Attlee believes the party has followed the road marked out by those men, and, above all, by Kier Hardy, the robust Scotsman who more than anyone else was a pioneer in Labor's rise to political power. In spite of the dollar gap, in spite of the crutch of the Marshall Plan, in spite of devaluation, the prime minister is these days remarkably relaxed and confident seeming.

The years have brought little change in his outlook. He is still essentially the middle-class Britisher, modest and unspectacular to the point of a reserve that at times seems painful.

He talks deprecatingly, almost humorously, of the effort of the Tories to set the middle class against the working class. They have been at it for a long time and it cannot, as the prime minister sees it, succeed at this eleventh hour.

Attlee is conscious of the history of the class from which he comes and of the contribution that class made to England's greatness in the last century. That is one reason he is so devoted to John Galsworthy's "Forsyte Saga" with its long chronicle of middle and upper middle-class Britain. Hollywood has made the Galsworthy book into a movie which had a gala premiere here the other night. But Attlee didn't attend. Somehow, as he puts it, he was a little afraid that Errol Flynn would not quite fit his concept of Soames Forsyte.

Hardly Fits Picture

Because his manner is so unassuming, so understandable, Attlee makes a poor target for the Tory press. In particular, certain newspapers, such as Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, incessantly attack the labor government, charging regimentation, snooping, coercion and downright chicanery. The prime minister hardly fits this picture.

But there should be no mistake about his power and his capacity. He is the force that holds together a somewhat disjointed party and somewhat disjointed government. Attlee is the one who applies discipline when the conflicting temperaments and ideas of his cabinet get out of hand.

He is also a shrewd politician and strategist. While every effort will be made to keep it secret until the last, Attlee has decided, according to sources that should have correct information, to announce the date of the election on the occasion of the party's great celebration on February 3.

The election would come then toward the end of February or the early part of March. It will be a contest bitterly fought with no quarter given. And the brunt of the fight on Labor's side will fall on the modest-spoken man who looks like a poster of the average Britisher: on "good old Clem," as he is called in exuberant moments at labor party rallies, who has risen to power with the growth of labor's political strength.

They Say

WASHINGTON—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.): "It is psychologically bad for business and everyone else if we have a surplus to retire the public debt in these prosperous times."

LONDON—Gen. Wladislaw Anders, wartime commander of the Polish army in exile: "The root of everything happening in Poland today lies in the fact that Poland has not succumbed to Sovietization despite more than four years of domination and communist terror."

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—Nationalist China's United Nations chief delegate T'ingfu F. Tsiang: "It is unimaginable that any freedom-loving people could deliberately choose to jeopardize the whole future of China for the sum of one billion dollars."

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y.—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky: "One of these days the whole world will be aligned to the Soviet Union in its struggle for peace."

Folks Of Fame

Lew Dockstader, noted minstrel and comedian, was born Aug. 7, 1856, at Hartford Conn. He seemed cut out for a stage career. At 17 he became stage manager and end man of an amateur minstrel show; became later a highly paid vaudeville comedian. In 1886 he opened his own minstrel show in a New York theater bearing his name, and it ran for three years, touring in the summer. Teaming with another man, they organized the most famous minstrel show the stage had ever known. He died in New York City Oct. 26, 1924. His real name was George Alfred Clapp.

BIBLE THOUGHT

Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more; but ye see me, because I live, ye shall live also. At that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you. He that hath my commandments and keepeth them he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright 1949, By The Baltimore Sun)

The Roosevelts And 1952

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. THOSE who expect better things from the next session of Congress than they got from the session recently ended forget the former will be only a few months from an election instead of more than a year. That, as every politician knows, makes a lot of difference.

AMONG other things, it means the big pressure groups exert more influence; the professional promoters become more lavish, the demagogues more reckless, the legislative bullies more brazen and the timid members of Congress more craven. These things become more pronounced as election day approaches—and the coming session easily may run to within 90 days of that date. It is not only that in the coming session the congressional election immediately ahead will strongly flavor the proceedings, but the presidential election, still two years away, will never be absent from political minds.

FOR example, in Administration circles at this moment the conviction is strongly held that Mr. Truman is a candidate to succeed himself. No one in the White House "inner circle" has any doubt on that score. This, of course, is a change from the former Truman attitude. Prior to the 1948 convention, Mr. Truman's feeling seemed to be that he had no desire to spend another four years in the White House. What really caused him to insist upon nomination was the vicious attack upon him by shining lights of the Americans for Democratic Action, including the two Roosevelts, James and Franklin, Jr., who were out whooping for Eisenhower, Douglas or practically anyone except Truman. Against such an attack, Mr. Truman's self-respect compelled him to revolt.

ACCORDINGLY, he made his assailants look silly in the convention and he was elected notwithstanding the odds and the prophets. Right after election those close enough to reflect his views asserted he felt his victory had vindicated him; that at the end of four years he would have had enough; that in 1952 he would not want renomination. Exactly when and why he changed his mind is not certain, but change it he apparently has. Intimate friends who then were so sure he would retire are now emphatic in asserting he will be renominated. Of course, if he wants to be he can be. Certainly, there is in sight no other aspirant of real availability. It is recognized now that General Eisenhower is a Republican, that he would not take a Democratic nomination, that he never believed in the New Deal and does not favor the "Welfare State"; that the only nomination that appeals to him is the Republican nomination. The advocates of Justice W. O. Douglas will have no convention votes and there just is no one else in sight unless you count young Franklin Roosevelt.

AS TO him, there seems no question about either his ambitions or his impatience at delay in realizing them. Men who know say he has definitely made up his mind to go after the New York gubernatorial nomination next year instead of seeking another term as a member of the House—though publicly he must pretend that he will. Somewhat swollen by his first victory and a rather bumptious individual congenitally, he is quite convinced he can beat Governor Dewey and is represented as believing that once he has done that there is no obstacle between him and the White House. Nor does he like the idea of waiting until 1956 to get there. In brief, young Roosevelt wants to run for governor before he finishes his first term in the House and for President before he has much more than begun his term as governor.

IT IS not likely to work out that way. There are too many hurdles to take. With no political asset except his father's name, it would seem to make him a young man far too much in a hurry. While it is true his career in the House must be measured by months, nevertheless he has demonstrated neither a capacity for, nor a desire to, work. Beyond doubt he is a good, glib campaigner. He has all the New Deal and Welfare State patter at the tip of his tongue. He knows all the demagogic catch phrases and special appeals. He has considerable personal attractiveness, but is said to be essentially superficial and definitely a lightweight without any strong convictions. It is further said he has persuaded his brother James, the insurance man, now campaigning to land the California governorship, that because he has "The Name," he is entitled to the first White House try.

IT IS an interesting situation these avid, not to say greedy, Roosevelt brothers, who more or less believe they have inherited the country, have created. If next year Jimmie gains the California governorship and Franklin the New York governorship, each will be on a springboard that, with luck, might land him in the presidency. But not in 1952, if Mr. Truman wants the nomination. And by 1956 chances are the magic of "The Name" will have measurably disappeared and any Roosevelt will have to advance on his own merits, which would be unfortunate for him.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A few days ago I went over to Lake Success to listen to Mr. Vihinsky deliver another one of his very comical pleas for universal peace, and as usual, he did so much double-talking that one really couldn't tell whether he was declaring war on the United States and Great Britain, or holding the olive branch.

Somehow, his talk reminded me of "Alice in Wonderland," and when I got home I looked up the one about "Alice and the Queen of Hearts With the Mock Turtle's Story and the Lobster Quadrille."

In case you don't remember it may I just quote a few passages? Doesn't it sound just like one of Mr. Vihinsky's speeches?

"The Mock Turtle went on: 'We had the best of educations—in fact, we went to school every day—'

"I've been to a day school, too," said Alice. "You needn't be so proud as all that."

"With extras!" asked the Mock Turtle a little anxiously.

"Yes," said Alice; "we learned French and music."

Then Mock Turtle proudly gave Alice an outline of the different subjects he had studied in his school.

"Reeling and Writhing, of course, to begin with," the Mock Turtle said, "and then the different branches of Arithmetic—Ambition, Distraction, Uglification, and Derision."

Alice didn't seem very much impressed. So the Mock Turtle continued.

"Then there was Mystery," said the Mock Turtle, counting off the subjects on his flappers—

"Mystery, ancient and modern, with Seaography; then Drawing—shinsky deliver another one of his very comical pleas for universal peace, and as usual, he did so much double-talking that one really couldn't tell whether he was declaring war on the United States and Great Britain, or holding the olive branch."

SOCIETY & Clubs

WOMAN'S CLUB WILL HEAR ARDIS ALLING

A unique program will be presented at the New Castle Woman's club by Ardis Alling, on Monday afternoon, December 5 at 2 o'clock in the Highland church.

In "Scenes from Our Golden Heritage" she has appeared three times from coast to coast in her original presentation in dramatic form of the most inspiring stories of all time.

During these troubled years her program has proved to be an inspiration as well as distinctive entertainment. Miss Alling's artistry is such that she has been able to impersonate the various characters of the dramatized story.

She is a trail blazer and a successful one, for she has delighted audiences everywhere with her unusual use of music and light to create the setting, and give the time element required. Her costumes also add to the beauty of the program, with many of them authentic, for she brought them back from her trips to the Holy Land.

Mrs. S. G. Staats, program chairman, is responsible for bringing Miss Alling to New Castle. The musical setting will be played by Mrs. Glenn McCracken.

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Carl Devlin, Mrs. H. N. Drio, Mrs. W. P. Flech and Mrs. E. G. Bolland.

Field Marshal

Montgomery Is Heading Home

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(INS)—British Field Marshal Montgomery headed for home today with these wide-eyed observations of America tucked away in his book of memories:

Shoe repair-while-you wait shops: "Amazing. I saw lots of men sitting in boxes without shoes. Never saw anything like it in my life."

Drug stores: "Where you can buy anything but drugs."

Football: "A jolly fine game. I saw the Army-Navy game. You know you have to be a tough chap, indeed, to play the game."

Newspaper columnists: "What are they?"

Peanut butter: "What is it? Do you spread it on like butter?"

The CHURCHES of CHRIST
SALUTE YOU Rom. 16:16
The Final Authority of God's Word
Everything we do in the worship and work of God Almighty must have His authority or we cannot do it by faith. "Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God" Rom. 10:17. This means that if we pray, sing, light candles, eat a meal or wash feet as our worship of God, we must have Biblical authority for it. The word of God must be recognized as FINAL, for we must please Him by faith. Heb. 11:6, and faith does not come by hearing the creedbooks of men. Anything that is more than the Bible is too much and anything that is less than the Bible is not enough.
Is it possible to worship God in vain? Yes. Matt. 15:9, "gardless of Bible teaching?" No. Ignorant worship is not acceptable. Act 17:23. Can we worship God as he wants acceptable. Acts 17:23. Can we worship God as he wants us to? Ah yes. John 4:24.

The caravaners will conduct a joint youth meeting in the evening at 6:30 and also the worship service at 7:45 o'clock.

"What Are We Doing With God's Gifts?" will be the evening's theme with the following subdivisions of the main topic being discussed: "Gift of Our Time," Miss McHolme; "Gift of Our Talents,"

Hospital Auxiliary Has Holiday Party

Sisters Of St. Francis Attend Annual Yuletide Event; Christmas Program Held

New Castle Hospital auxiliary members and the Sisters of the New Castle hospital enjoyed the auxiliary's annual Christmas party which followed a meeting Thursday afternoon in the nurses' home.

President Mrs. Jessie Stenger presided briefly. Beautiful holly and pine sprays decorated the room and the gifts exchanged later by the group were piled underneath the Christmas tree. Each of the Sisters received a remembrance.

During the party, Mrs. Margaret McGown, program chairman, presented an impressive program entitled "The Christmas Story." Miss Carole Young, a talented and youthful reader, told the ever loved story of the first Christmas. Miss Lena Mae McConnell, soprano, offered several solos, and the auxiliary later joined in singing Christmas carols.

Miss Mary Chifallio was the piano accompanist. A round-robin Christmas card, with the signature of everyone present, was sent to Sister M. Martina, former hospital superintendent, who is confined in the St. Francis hospital, Pittsburgh, due to an illness.

A delicious buffet lunch was served at the close of activities from attractive lace covered tables, centered with yuletide decorations. Mrs. Paul Zarembo, second vice-president, and the following committee assisted during the social period: Mrs. Ann Cannon, Mrs. A. Cassasanta, Mrs. M. Clavelli, Mrs. M. Clark, Mrs. F. Colao, Mrs. J. Cobb, Mrs. R. Cypher, Mrs. Ina Cleveley, Mrs. C. Willmarth, Mrs. A. Murphy and Mrs. M. Schmidt.

The next meeting on January 5, 1950, will be preceded by a luncheon with the Sisters as hostesses to the auxiliary.

PERCENTAGES DROP PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3. (INS) — S. Reginald Forester, W. S. Swinger said today that destruction of woodlands in the eastern United States from forest fires has dropped to "below pre-war percentages."

Evangelist Parrott is a member of the National Religious Broadcasters association. Thursday and Friday evenings the speaker was heard in Sharon. During his services he exercises the rite of Divine healing.

Rev. F. D. Marshall To Address Pastors

Convicted Slayers Are Given Test By Brain Wave Machine

LONDON, Dec. 3. (INS)—The British Medical association reported today that 64 convicted murderers had been tested with a "brain wave" machine in an effort to substitute "science for the scaffold." The machine is an electroencephalograph, which charts brain waves on a graph and shows whether or not the brain is normal. Fourteen of the 64, including "Acid Bath Murderer" John Haigh, later were hanged. The others are believed to be in prisons or criminal asylums. All volunteered for the tests.

Results of the tests have no standing under British law, but doctors hope the results of the seven-year experiment reported today will hasten the day when greater consideration will be given science before a convicted murderer goes to the gallows.

The experiments were conducted in London's Maudsley hospital by Dr. Hayden Taylor, medical officer of Brixton prison, and Dr. David Stafford Clark, a London psychiatrist.

The report showed among other things that of the subjects who had committed murder without an apparent motive 73 per cent had brain abnormalities.

REPEAL HAS SUCCEEDED

A guest in a preacher's home asked, "Who was the little crippled girl who was at church this morning?" She had such a bright and pleasing face."

"That little girl," said the preacher, "was struck by a drunken driver last year and her spine was injured. She will never walk again."

"Terrible," the guest replied, "What did they do with the driver?"

"Well," said the preacher, "they were rather severe on him. You see, he had been involved in another accident when he was drunk, so they fined him $100.00."

Pulaski Lions Will Be Hosts

Charter Night Will Be Observed With Program In The Cathedral Tuesday

R. ROY KEATON
WILL BE SPEAKER

R. ROY KEATON

Tuesday night, December 6, will be Charter Night with the Pulaski Lions club, which will be commemorated with a dinner and program in the Cathedral starting at 8 o'clock.

Invitations have been extended to all Lions clubs in the local area to participate and a big attendance of Lions and their ladies is looked for. Partly to help celebrate the birthday of the Pulaski club and partly due to the fact that the speaker will be R. Roy Keaton, of Chicago, Ill., assistant secretary general of Lions International.

In addition to the address of Mr. Keaton there will also be other entertainment.

Served Lions Many Years
Mr. Keaton was appointed assistant secretary-general of the International Association of Lions Clubs by the International Board of Directors in 1945, after serving the international organization in various capacities since 1934, when he was first named a special representative of Lions International. In 1939 he returned to Texas to become state secretary and during his six-year term of office he established 155 Lions clubs in that state.

Lion Keaton is in great demand as a speaker, because of his enthusiasm in the interest of Lions and also because of his natural oratorical ability. He began his training along this line at an early date, having won first place in the Texas State Junior Declamation contest at the age of 13 years.

Mr. Keaton is a Methodist, member of the Knights of Pythias and Masonic fraternities, and is also a Knight Templar and Shriner.

He has travelled and worked with Lions clubs in Mexico, Central and South America, Cuba, Canada and United States. He organized the first European Lions club in Sweden and followed by organizing clubs in Switzerland and France.

Auto Dealer Loses $4,950 To Bandits

Texas Auto Dealer Is Abducted
By Bandits And Robbed
In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—(INS)—A Texas auto dealer was abducted by two masked gunmen in Pittsburgh last night and robbed of $4,950. He succeeded in concealing another $15,000 from the hold-up pair.

C. O. Brady, of Borger, Tex., told police he was just leaving the Cadillac Hotel in Pittsburgh with another man when the gunmen drove up and ordered him into their car at gunpoint.

The gunmen ordered William Green, who accompanied Brady and sometimes drove cars to Texas for him to stay behind.

Brady said he was forced to lie on the floor of the car, and after it had gone a short distance, to hand over the money.

Brady said he gave the men one envelope containing $4,800 and $150 from his pocket. Police suspected someone had "fingered" Brady, since the gunmen called him by name.

WATER SHORTAGE

ROOSEVELT, N. J., Dec. 3.—(INS)—Only the children are enjoying the water shortage that has closed the two factories in Roosevelt, N. J., and interrupted the town's normal life.

The two artesian wells which for 14 years supplied Roosevelt's 800 residents with 75,000 gallons of water daily suddenly dried up. A trickle of 3,000 gallons a day from Highstown, seven miles down the highway, is being imported during the shortage.

But, with schools closed, some 110 children are running around, shouting: "Go wash your face!"

HOW MUCH CANDY

If you ask Dick how much candy he wants, he will ask how much is there.

He wants plenty. Carbohydrate is a big word for Dick. He had a hard time learning to spell it. He needs lots of it to keep him going.

Carbohydrate means starch and sugar. Bread and potato and breakfast food and rolled oats and vegetables and fruit provide it.

Molasses and honey and jelly and pop and candy and sugar provide it too.

Dick is building a body while he is running it. He needs building material. Protein is his main standby. If he gets enough protein he is pretty safe.

If he gets protein first, the candy ration will probably take care of it's self. When he has a bottle of pop in one hand and a lollipop in the other he feels pretty good, thank you, Ma'am.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

The placid city of Lancaster, Pa., has two indubitable claims to fame. One, the great American merchant, Frank W. Woolworth, established its first successful five-and-ten cent store there—with a roof garden as an added attraction. By the time of his death Mr. Woolworth had parlayed that modest start into a fortune of 27 million dollars.

Lancaster's second boast is that the first ice-cream soda was a local product—the invention of an ingenious confectioner named Royer. People from all over the state began dropping in to Mr. Royer's shop on King street to sample his new concoction—and soon the ice-cream soda was the favorite soft drink of the whole United States.

Joe Flanagan wants to know if you heard about the two stamp and coin collectors who got together to talk about old times. Arthur Duffy saw a couple of termites gnawing at the woodwork of his cellar and swears that one chortled, "Oh boy, this'll bring the house down." If you think you can do better, please write to me care of King Features, New York.

TURNPIKE PROGRESS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 3.—(INS)—A spokesman for the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission today reported approximately 20 miles of pavement have been completed on the Philadelphia extension.

The official said completed projects included a $2,509,828, five mile stretch in York county plus a four and a half mile stretch costing $930,000 in Lebanon county.

All work along the eastern leg of the toll route was reported ahead of schedule by builders and indications were that the completion date December 1, 1950, would be met with days to spare.

Salmon From The Far North, Fruit From The Deep South.

A news dispatch recently said that a truck operator running a line over the Alcan highway was now transporting salmon from the far northern part of Alaska.

Interesting of course, but in line with the service given the public by motor trucks. Salmon from the far north, fruit and vegetables from the deep south, fish and oysters from the seaboard, milk for the congested cities, all of them services of motor trucks.

Where there's a need for delivery of goods, there you will find a motor truck serving the people. It's so in every hamlet and city of the United States.

Salmon From The Far North, Fruit From The Deep South.

A news dispatch recently said that a truck operator running a line over the Alcan highway was now transporting salmon from the far northern part of Alaska.

Interesting of course, but in line with the service given the public by motor trucks. Salmon from the far north, fruit and vegetables from the deep south, fish and oysters from the seaboard, milk for the congested cities, all of them services of motor trucks.

Where there's a need for delivery of goods, there you will find a motor truck serving the people. It's so in every hamlet and city of the United States.

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2.—The current crop of screen newcomers were advised today to become robbers.

If the admonition is heeded, Jeanne Crain would speak with a husky bankhead basso and Peter Lawford like Maurice Evans.

The advice came from Arthur Blake, reputed in most quarters as the greatest mimic in show business, Blake declared:

"Vapid acting manners are driving audiences out of the theaters. Hollywood's big hope lies in out-and-out stealing of great acting styles."

"People in the legitimate theater have been doing it ever since the ancient Greeks. Milton Berle is a lot closer to Sir Henry Irving and John Drew than a lot of our academy award winners. Berle knows the value of larceny."

Have To Borrow
Blake, who makes his screen debut in Eagle-Lion's "Port of New York," snickers at actresses who fear of being accused of copycatting Bette Davis, Luise Rainer and Rosalind Russell.

"Those three borrowed from others in the first place," he said. "Every great actor steals. You can develop an acting style without pilfering in something like 20 years—Joan Crawford did—but movie audiences can't wait 20 years these days."

For his dough, Betsy Drake is the best thing that's happened in the Hollywood glamour gal department for a coon's age.

Copy Styles
Betsy isn't afraid to lift a little from Katharine Hepburn here, Dorothy McGuire there and Maude Adams in between here and there.

And Alexis Smith, as far as he is concerned, gave the greatest promise of becoming an important actress when she was doing an accurate imitation of Bette Davis several semesters ago.

"Why," Blake asked, "do you think producers are suddenly bringing Margaret Sullivan, Gloria Swanson, Mae West, Garbo and other great acting stylists back to the screen? Because John Q. Public is fed up with style duds."

Blake, who was grabbed right out of his mimicry act at night clubs and rushed to the sound stages to portray a drug addict in "Port of New York," continued:

Even From Lassic
"I'm a born 'goniff' when it comes to cribbing from other actors. I'd steal from Lassic to develop style."

At the studio the big wheels say that Blake is something new under Old Sol in the way of a heavy.

"That's a laugh," Blake said. "I've snatched voice tricks and gestures from at least seven great actors. It all comes out looking like an original style, though."

Blake said to heck with actors who get their stuff stolen. "They've got it coming to them," he allowed. "If there were laws against stealing acting styles, the world's greatest stars would all be serving life sentences in the clink. Ethel Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Robert Morley, Ralph Richardson—all of 'em."

Hiss Jury Sees Pumpkin Papers

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Enlarged facsimiles of the famous "pumpkin papers" were shown for the second time Friday to the jury at the second perjury trial of former State Department Aide Alger Hiss.

Hiss himself sat expressionless as the four feet by five feet reproductions of the secret State department documents—hidden by Whitaker Chambers in a pumpkin on his Maryland farm—were displayed in court.

Chambers charges that these documents were funneled through him, by Hiss, to a Soviet spy ring in 1938.

WALTER L. LYON HOME ON LEAVE

Walter L. Lyon, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Klor Lyon, 7 West Moody avenue, is home from Camp LeJue, N. C., for a 15-day furlough.

Lyon is a member of weapons company of the Sixth Marines, second division, at Camp LeJue.

Today's Fashion Flash

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Nylon fur that looks like mink but is warmer than Eskimos' caribou skins may be the next fashion innovation.

Canadian scientists are now making nylon to resemble wolverine and caribou furs, but it was learned today that they plan to imitate such fancy furs as muskrat, beaver and mink.

The synthetic fur is mothproof, fire-resistant and washable with soap and water. Its chief drawback for fashion wear is that it may be too warm. Testers have worn it, with perfect comfort, in 50-below-zero temperatures.

APPOINTMENT MADE

REPEAL HAS SUCCEEDED

The fiscal year ending June 30, 1949, was the second largest in beer production of any in history and neared the record established in the previous year, according to Tap and Tavern, September 19. Consistency would, in truth, be a jewel, but there is no such sparkle in the efforts toward social betterment. Every advancement is thwarted by the money changers engaged in the liquor business.

There are those who insist that children and young persons must be taught to practice restraint while surrounded by liquor, gambling, and prostitution. Yet no sane person would say that children are expected to build up an immunity to pediculosis, rats, leaky roofs, and polio germs. Slum clearance is the order of the day.

REMOVE THE CAUSE is the slogan for social advancement except where money and appetite are involved. Increase in liquor sales means, unquestionably, increase in human degradation.

A New Approach by the BEER SELLERS

A new approach of the beer sellers is their plan to associate college A Cappella Choirs with beer consumption under the guise of "the graces of good living," through a statewide harvest song festival.

One of the choral groups invited to participate in this affair was that of HOUGHTON COLLEGE, one of the most outstanding Christian colleges in America—a college which has a famous A Cappella Choir.

Following appear both the invitation—which speaks for itself—and the reply from Houghton College:

A Cappella College Singing Group
Houghton, New York

Gentlemen:

Your choral group is cordially invited to participate in the Choral Singing Contests of our Harvest Song Festival, a statewide competition for amateur singing societies of eight voices or more, which will be staged under the auspices of this Association, at Kleinhans Music Hall, Buffalo, on Sunday evening, October 23, for the purpose of selecting the four outstanding choral groups in the state and crowning one of them New York State Champion Choristers of 1949.

Trophies will be awarded to winners in all classes—male and female, mixed and collegiate groups, with a grand prize "Bowl" symbolically awarded to the Grand Champion. Winners will want to exhibit these trophies in public places as symbols of the honor that has come to their group, and they will cherish them increasingly as the years roll by and the Harvest Song Festival comes to be known as the standard of measurement of choral groups.

In addition to the trophies, it is anticipated that winning groups will appear on either a radio broadcast or television program. Our technical director will be Mr. Robert MacIntyre, Director of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra.

Gross receipts of the Harvest Song Festival will be donated by the Edward J. Gohr Memorial Fund of our Association to the New York Heart Fund, to be used for "the conquest of heart disease, through research and education".

It is our plan to make the Harvest Song Festival the outstanding musical event of the year in New York State. This is the first time amateur singing groups have been offered the opportunity to compete in a contest of this kind on a statewide scale. We feel sure your group will want to be among those competing for the State Championship.

Please fill out the enclosed entry blank and return it to us. You will be notified in good time of the date, time, and place of the preliminary competition.

Yours for one of the graces of good living—good singing.

(REPLY)

September 19, 1949.

Mr. Samuel Bernstein
Executive Director
New York State Wholesale Beer Distributors Association, Inc.

60 East 42nd Street
New York 17, New York.

Dear Mr. Bernstein:

Houghton College appreciate the courtesy expressed in your letter of August 27 in the form of an invitation to the College A Cappella Choir to participate in the Harvest Song Festival which your Association is sponsoring in the near future.

We appreciate also the thought expressed in your words "Yours for one of the graces of good living—good singing". It is the firm conviction of our Institution that the consumption of beverage alcohol by human beings cannot by any logic be brought into line with the concept of good living. In this of course we differ very decidedly from a great number of our fellow citizens who apparently feel that alcohol drinking is a justifiable social practice in spite of the awful trail of shipwreck which it is leaving in the social scene today.

In view of the ideals of Houghton College in this matter, we would of course not be free to accept your invitation extended to our Choir to appear in this contest under your auspices.

We appreciate, Mr. Bernstein, the good will and the cordial spirit of your invitation and are only sorry that you are employing these in a cause which we feel is working to the ultimate damage of society.

Sincerely yours,
Stephen W. Paine
President.

Welfare Worker Possible Here

Commissioners Considering Establishment Of Department To Handle Children

OTHER EVENTS IN COURT HOUSE

Serious consideration is being given by the county commissioners to the hiring of welfare worker to care for the juvenile problems that arise.

Miss Christine Pinner of the State Department of Welfare was in conference with the commissioners Friday morning discussing the idea and presented some case references which would come under the supervision of a welfare worker.

Miss Pinner pointed out that undoubtedly many cases came before the commissioners of juveniles who should be put into foster homes or in some cases, institutions.

She suggested that a welfare worker would conform to the requirements of the state department and would qualify in the county to receive state aid.

The commissioners asked many questions, developed several ideas they had and apparently want to consider the matter further before passing judgement upon the idea.

Orders Probe Of Acquittal Verdict

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Judge Joseph Sloane ordered a full-scale probe of the acquittal of James Comber, 31, accused in the slaying of Hugh E. Madden, motor firm executive.

Judge Sloane last night denounced the verdict rendered by an all-woman jury which freed Comber of murder and manslaughter charges.

The jurist asked Assistant District Attorney A. V. Cortese to investigate possibility of a re-arrest on charges of assault and battery.

Pittsburgh Motor Club Lists Rules For Care Of Tires

Advise Change By Now From Heavy To Lighter Oil For Freer Flowing

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh Motor club has a word of advice, or rather several words, for motorists who want to get the most and best out of their tires.

1. Keep tires properly inflated, have them checked at least once a week. Pressure should not be more than three pounds less than the figure recommended for your size tire and weight of car.
2. Avoid sharp objects in the road, curbs, chuck holes, and other obstructions.
3. Remember that moderate speeds increase the life of the tire. An average 30-mile-an-hour speed gives normal wear, an average of 50-miles-per-hour amounts to 40 per cent, and 60-miles-an-hour to about 55 per cent.
4. Sudden starts and stops cause serious tire wear as does taking curves at high speeds.
5. Wheels out of line cause unnecessary tire wear.
6. Tires deteriorate if not exercised. Keep alternating tires from wheel to wheel to spare carrier.
7. Keep brakes in proper adjustment.
8. Keep garage floor clean. Oil is a natural enemy of rubber. Incidental intelligence: It is not true that heavier oil provides better lubrication for a car. Oil must flow to bearings, piston rings and such parts before lubricating, and heavy thick oil will not readily flow between close-fitting parts. That is why everyone should be changing to winter-grade lighter oil now.

Colorado Husbands Can Spank Wives

LAKEWOOD, Colo., Dec. 3.—(INS)—Colorado husbands apparently have the legal right to discipline their wives with spankings.

Mrs. Helen G. Johnson appeared in district court in Lakewood seeking a divorce from her husband on grounds of physical and mental cruelty. She cited a "hard blow to her back" administered by her husband as proof of the "cruelty."

Johnson's attorney, however, described the "blow" as only a "hard spanking" assertedly given because the husband wanted his wife to stay at home and tend to her household duties.

Judge E. L. Reganier awarded an interlocutory decree to the husband, Per Sten Johnson, on a cross complaint.

San Francisco's exports in 1946 averaged a million dollars a day.

Now is the time to hill up your Florabunda or Hybrid Tea roses to a height of ten inches. Then after the bushes are dormant the canes should be cut back to about fourteen inches from the ground. After the hilled up soil is frozen around the roses they should be covered to a depth of two feet, with straw. The straw covering should remain on the roses until spring. If this protection of roses is carried out the winter loss is kept to a minimum.

Duff Rejects Use Of State Guards For Patrol Work

HARRISBURG, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Gov. James H. Duff Friday brusquely rejected a suggestion for using the Pennsylvania national guard to patrol Pittsburgh's Shadyside district to prevent further sexual slayings.

In reply to a statement at Pittsburgh by Rev. Wilburn C. Campbell, who urged use of the PNG, Duff said:

"That is entirely the problem of the police department of the city of Pittsburgh."

Reverend Campbell is pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

Good Taste

By FRANCES MARTEL

WRITING WITHOUT BEING ASKED TO DO SO

"My family recently moved from the town where we had lived all my life. The distance is only about 50 miles. I knew very well a nice young man in the town from which we came, but I never see him now that we are neighbors. It so happens that I am very fond of him. Do you think I should write and tell him of my feelings? I am afraid I shall never see him again. Will you please advise me what to do?"

Answer: By all means resist the urge to "pour forth your soul" on paper.

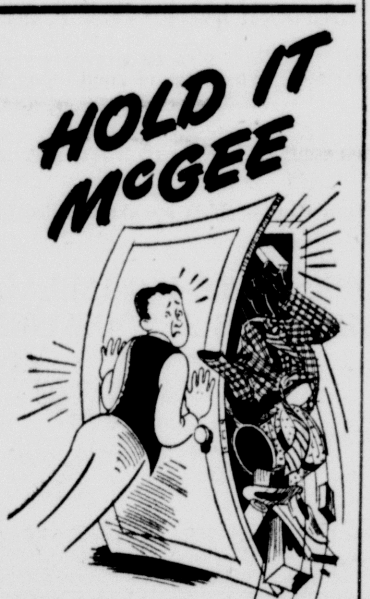

Just suppose you did give vent to this feminine urge and he ignored your pleas for his attentions. What embarrassment would be yours!

This would, indeed, be foolish since you don't know where you stand in his affections. No man admires a woman who boldly declares her intentions without encouragement or invitation. Sometimes a subtle woman can tactfully turn a man's affections her way, but no one can be that subtle on paper.

If you feel that you must see him, write to him, inviting him to spend the weekend at your new home. That will give indication of your interest in him and if he has any in you, he will reciprocate in some way. And things will develop from there—if they are due to develop at all.

Question: What is the best form of acknowledging an introduction? Answer: How do you do.

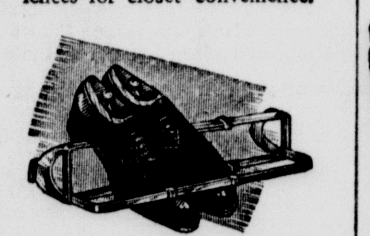

Present your problems to Miss Marstel who will promptly send personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.

Third Service Academy Reported As Proposed

By GEORGE MOISE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The navy's recent headline-making criticism of defense policy may sound like a timid wolf whistling if Sen. Ives (R) N. Y., is right about a proposed bill to set up a third service academy.

Ives charged that the Bill, awaiting congressional action in January, would "pave the way for abolishment" of West Point and Annapolis as schools of the army and navy respectively.

He said the measure was dangerous and at best would reduce the status of the academies. At its worst, he said, the measure would abolish them outright.

Such action would stir up a service ruckus the like of which seldom has been seen, if ever. Regular army and navy officers could be expected to blow their tops, but good.

Third "Military" Academy
The bill, introduced by Chairman Tydings (D) Md., of the Senate Armed Services committee, calls for establishment of a third "military" academy. The air force has long contemplated an academy of its own.

But an Armed Services committee source said that the bill, the product of the defense department, is "ambiguously worded."

The source said that "it will come out during debate" that the Defense department wants to have three military academies with the "same names." He said the department would like to do away with Annapolis as strictly a navy school and West Point as the army academy.

And, the source said, even the air force is "most unhappy" about the situation. Most top air force officers are alumni of West Point.

Crowning Blow
The source added the crowning blow when he said that if the bill becomes law, "we will have no more Army-Navy football games as such for the academies will not exist under their old names."

The services are justifiably proud of their academies. Despite great wartime influx of reserve, temporary and national guard officers, some of whom were among the best, the vast majority of men who lead this nation in war are academy graduates.

And they can be counted on to raise their voices so loud in objection to any change in the academies' status that the navy's objections to defense policy, or the old argument about whether Robert E. Lee would have won at Gettysburg if Longstreet had come up, will be relegated to the archives.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

A Home-Made Guessing Game

People don't "go for" the parlor games that used to be so popular. Home movies, television, bridge and a lot of other things have taken place of home spelling bees, simple card games, riddles and guessing games of one kind or another.

Once in a while, one of the old-fashioned pursuits is fun. In a sense, the advertising guessing game, which families have found to be fun, can't be old fashioned since it uses modern advertising as its take-off. But in spirit, it goes along with the parlor games of yesterday.

One cuts from magazines advertising pictures—some very familiar ones and others that will be harder to guess. These are divided of any printing that would give a clue to the product they represent and pasted on pieces of cardboard.

Old and young alike can play. Two dozen or so cards are passed around. Each person has a minute or two to write down the name of the product or the company he thinks the picture represents. The winner, of course, is the one who guesses the greatest number correctly.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Reuters reported from Frankfurt today that an atomic defense training program will be started soon for all American troops in Germany.

The news agency said that four of the army's leading atomic experts recently told senior officers of all three services at Heidelberg of plans for the opening of an atom defense school in January at Kitzingen, Northern Bavaria.

Zeno J. Pfau Will Have Anniversary

In Business Here Fourteen Years Tomorrow; Has 42 Employees Here

Fourteen years ago tomorrow Zeno J. Pfau, president of Chevrolet-Keystone Company, launched his automobile dealership here following 18 years experience in the field.

Mr. Pfau was born in New Springfield, Ohio, in 1897. In 1900 his family moved to a dairy farm south of Youngstown and later to Youngstown where Mr. Pfau first started in the automobile business. The present Chevrolet dealer in Youngstown, James Henderson, employed Mr. Pfau during 1917. At that time, Mr. Henderson was distributor for Willys-Knight and Overland cars.

"During those years," Mr. Pfau said, "people bought automobiles in the summer only. I was looking for a year-around market so I tried selling cars in Los Angeles during the winter months and in the eastern section of the country during the summer. It meant long hours and hard work, but the experience was surely worth it."

Mr. Pfau held a number of different auto sales and manager jobs prior to starting his own dealership here on December 5, 1935.

The 4-story, 60,000 sq. ft. agency building is located at 210 West Washington street.

Of the firm's 42 employees, 7 were employed by the company's predecessor organization. One employee has 20 years service with both companies.

Ray Putnam is service manager; Paul Duff, parts manager; James Kerr, sales manager, and Ruth Cleveland is office manager. Together, the employees represent 305 years of automotive experience.

Would Deny Bail
On Sex Charges

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Denial of bail to persons charged with sex offenses in Pennsylvania was urged today by the November grand jury in Philadelphia.

Calling for a tightening of the state's sex crime laws, the jury's final presentation to Judge Vincent A. Carroll declared:

"We feel that Pennsylvania statutes should be amended so that by refusing bail for this type of crime a greater protection would be afforded to the public."

Two Ward Youths
Get Deer Each

It is reported that Ralph Frew of 609 North Cedar street, age 16, who had been hunting since 12 years of age, bagged an eight-point deer, weighing about 160 pounds, in the vicinity of Austin, Potter county. Fred Adamo of 513 North Cedar street, who accompanied him, got a six-point deer, weighing 150 pounds. Ralph has shot a deer every year but one. The last two deer he has shot from the same tree, as his father has advised him it is safer shooting from that location.

Former State Senator Answers Harvard "Subsidizing" Charges

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(INS)—A "burned up" former Democratic state senator took issue today with Harvard Athletic Director William J. Bingham's allegation that Pennsylvania "subsidizes athletics."

Bingham had said at Cambridge, Mass., that Harvard gave up inter-collegiate football with the University of Pennsylvania because "we can't compete against their athletic scholarships."

Statement Absurd
In Philadelphia, ex-Sen. J. Jerome Stassen fired both barrels at the Harvard official by declaring:

"Bingham's statement is absurd. An examination of the records will reveal that 90 per cent of the state senatorial scholarships were awarded to good students who needed aid."

"When one was given to an athlete, he first had to be an excellent student and in need."

Jassen said that in the 12 years he served in Harrisburg as a state senator "you could count on one finger the number of scholarships I gave to athletes." He added:

"Moreover, I knew some Senators who never gave one athletic scholarship. That was wrong, too. But when I hear a fellow like Bingham implying that Pennsylvania subsidizes athletics, I burn up."

"I have the records. He can come look at them."

Stassen Speaks
In Boston, Penn. President Harold E. Stassen defended his school's athletic purity while also administering a somewhat milder scolding to Bingham.

Stassen said he would not let Bingham's statement "go unchallenged" but declared the Harvard official ought to "trash it out" with Dr. Roy Mercer, Penn's director of athletics.

"If they can't come to an agreement," Stassen asserted, "I shall talk to Dr. Conant (Dr. James B. Conant, Harvard president) about it."

Bingham himself apparently has decided to "zip his lip" and was through talking about the matter. Newsweek seeking comment from him after Stassen's counter-blast got only this statement from Bingham:

"I've talked too much already. I'm sorry I did."

Mahoningtown junior high school defeated the East Brook junior varsity 24-20 in the preliminary game. Bob Dean led the JV's with 9 points and Ronjon paced the Mahoningtown team with 13.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

FIBBER MCGEE, well known insurance executive, went hunting with Andy Dodds, county controller, and Merle Gilitch, the forepart of the week, and as a result, Fibber has his own idea concerning the truthfulness of Andy. Here's what happened. They arrived Monday in Forest County, and while Dodds and McGee ate dinner, Gilitch shot a buck. On Tuesday, Dodds assumed the role of guide when the trio set forth. But let Fibber tell the rest of the story: "Dodds took us on a cross-country hike and got us badly lost. Like a good politician, he merely gave us another promise, and kept us walking. By nightfall, we came out safe and sound. He claimed he was not lost, but, when a 15 minute walk takes five hours, what would you think?"

Apparently Mrs. Jack Herbert, former resident, now of Miami, who a year or more ago predicted greater things for Coalton, had the right slant. Recently, Coalton ran a 1:34 flat in Chicago. . . Mahoning-Trumbull Counties Beagle club will hold an AKC rabbit trial at 8 a. m. Sunday, on Route 224, at Ellsworth, Ohio. . . Mailella, Connors, Rainey and Quinn are among top bowlers of the Johnson Bronze.

Answer to boxing question: Jim Jeffries retired as world's undefeated heavyweight champion in 1905. Jeffries says he never sanctioned "giving away" the crown (to Hart), hence Jeffries refereed the Marvin Hart-Jack Root match in 1905. The winner was to be a claimed champion. Hart knocked out Root in 12 rounds in 1905, but Hart never made much ado about his "title." In February, 1906, Tommy Burns outpointed Hart in 20 rounds in San Francisco. Burns claimed the championship and capitalized on it, but Jack Johnson came along and so terrifically whipped Burns at Sydney, Australia, in 1908, police jumped into the ring and stopped the fight in the fourteenth round. Johnson actually won the title by knocking out Jeffries, who came out of retirement to restore the title to the Caucasian race, July 4, 1910, in the fifteenth round at Reno, Nev.

Answer to Joe Reynolds, 3223 Fifth avenue, Beaver Falls: New Castle high school football eleven won 238 games, lost 48 games and tied in 18 games for an average of 832 for the 1922-1949 period, which is "some" achievement: 1922, 8-0-1; 1923, 10-0-1; 1924, 10-0-0; 1925, 9-1-0; 1926, 7-1-2; 1927, 10-1-0; 1928, 9-0-1; 1929, 6-3-1; 1930, 10-2-0; 1931, 4-6-1; 1932, 11-0-0; 1933, 13-0-0; 1934, 8-2-3; 1935, 11-2-1; 1936, 8-2-1; 1937, 6-4-1; 1938, 8-2-0; 1939, 8-3-0; 1940, 10-0-1; 1941, 10-1-0; 1942, 9-1-1; 1943, 7-2-1; 1944, 2-8-0; 1945, 8-2-0; 1946, 6-3-1; 1947, 9-1-1; 1948, 10-1-0; 1949, 11-0-0.

Dick Davis, safety director for the city, says there was too much disparity between the weights of Willie Epps and Elmer Lakitis. A certain difference is allowed between boxers. Here & There believes it to be 10 pounds. . . Did Don Latore get a buck with the most (10) points this year? . . . Lou Wallace, son of Policeman Carl Wallace, got a couple shots at a buck, but failed to bring it down. . . Adolf Lang got a nice big deer, as did several others who were in a hunting party at Charlie Johnson's camp. . . The new low in attendance at the recent punch parties failed to bring revenue to the Perry Gaston Post, American Legion for baseball activities next year. Lack of hustle, counter attractions, lack of outstanding punchers, added to Christmas shopping, is responsible. . . A deer will jump a fence to lick a block of salt in a farm yard, Owen Fox, naturalist, says.

Freedom Spoils Wampum Opener

Freedom high swamped Wampum 60 to 38 last night at the Wampum floor in the opening game of the 1949-50 season for the Indians.

A capacity crowd saw the visitors' little forward Nudi lace the hoops with uncanny accuracy to pace his mates with 14 fgs and a pair of foul tosses good for 30 points. Don Schena and Caesar Craine split 17 markers for the Henonmen.

Wampum trailed 19 to 11 in the first period and never got back into the ball game. Freedom made a near rout of the contest in the third period by holding Wampum to four markers. The Indians play another Class A foe, Monaca, next Tuesday.

Score by halves:
Wampum 11 10 4 23-38
Freedom 19 12 18-60

PITTSBURGH "BARES" RESULT OF THIEVES

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Professional football now has both the Bears and the Bares. George Halas' Chicago team has long had the name Bears. The Pittsburgh Steelers just acquired the other title.

It seems the Pittsburgh club got its name with the "help" of thieves who stole 11 pair of pants, sweaters, several head gear and other unmentionables that the dressed football player wears.

The Pittsburgh Bares play the Chicago Bears in Chicago Sunday and the outlook isn't brilliant for the smoky city team. The weatherman predicts 30 degree temperatures.

La Starza Wins Over Cesar Brion

By JOHN BARRINGTON
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Now at least 12,035 fans—plus a sizeable television audience—know why Ezzard Charles is claiming the world's heavyweight boxing championship.

Their enlightenment came last night as 22-year-old Roland La Starza of New York's Bronx decided Cesar Brion, an equally young Argentinian, in a ten-round fight at Madison Square Garden.

The attraction was billed as one that might establish either of these clean-cut youngsters as an outstanding contender for Charles' National Boxing association championship.

Unanimous Decision
La Starza's decision was unanimous—in fact, the officials scored it much closer than most ring-siders—but it was also undisturbed.

Roland gave away five and one-half pounds, coming in at 187 to 192½, and he conceded four inches in height to the 6'2" Brion. But that was all La Starza did give away.

The judges' cards showed 54-1 and 44-2. La Starza getting the nod on points on the second card. Referee Harry Fullam scored it 6-4. Most observers gave Roland every round, except possibly the last.

But Charles need have no fear—at least until the youngsters get a bit drier behind the ears.

Foldberg Named Captain Of Army

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 3.—(INS)—Dan Foldberg, Army's super-duper offensive end from Dallas, Tex., will captain the West Point footballers next season in a nine-game schedule that will include games with Colgate, Stanford and New Mexico.

The Stanford contest will be Army's second trip to the West Coast in 60 years of football.

The Army schedule:
Sept. 30, Colgate; Oct. 7, Penn State; 14, Michigan at New York; 21, at Harvard; 28, at Columbia; Nov. 4, at Pennsylvania; 11, New Mexico; 18, at Stanford; Dec. 2, Navy at Philadelphia.

BARGAIN BILL
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Bargain bill college basketball re-appears on the Philadelphia sports scene tonight when Temple meets Vanderbilt and St. Joseph's tangle with Louisiana State.

Josh Cody's 1949 Temple five will be watched closely in this rugged opening battle. The Owls reportedly have one of their best cage squads in history.

Michigan State's football team played before a record 361,000 fans in nine games this fall.

Browns And Bills To Battle Sunday

Winners Sunday Of Browns And Bills Game Will Meet 49'ers-Yanks Winners

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Playoffs begin tomorrow in the All-America conference, with the New York Yankees at the San Francisco Forty-Niners and the Buffalo Bills at the Cleveland Browns, the winners to meet for pro-rated gold and glory one week thence.

Earlier in the week, the Forty-Niners went on strike, asking extra pay for playoffs.

Anthony Morabito, the owner of the Forty-Niners, mentioned several well-known jurists who might gaze disenchantedly upon the Forty-Niners' cause, and that ended that.

Title Game Next Week
Thus the Shaughnessy-type playoff goes as scheduled, with first-place Cleveland meeting fourth-place Buffalo and third-place New York meeting second-place San Francisco. Any ties will be played off in sudden-death overtime.

The championship game next week will be at the park of the club which, of tomorrow's winners, finished higher in the standings.

The week after that—Dec. 18—the National League holds its championship game.

Steelers Vs. Bears
If Steve matches last Sunday's performance against the Pittsburgh Steelers—or even if he's only a shade that sensational—he'll have no trouble blasting through the Giants' defenses for his new rushing record.

In other National League games, a rather dismal card is on tap. The Los Angeles Rams are about to win the western division crown, which makes such titanic billings as Green Bay at Washington and the New York Bulldogs at Detroit more or less for Sweeney.

The Rams are home to the Chicago Cardinals, football's mystery men.

Other game: Pittsburgh at Chicago Bears, the latter of whom can still take a mathematical run at the western division title, through a rather dubious parley.

Mercur Hi Tops New Wilmington

New Wilmington high school dropped its season's opener last night to Mercer at the New Wilmington floor by a 46-32 score.

The game was close up until the last five minutes when the Mustangs widened the gap with flurry of successful shots.

Tom Hutchinson paced the Greyhounds with 11 points, followed by Dave Boyd with 9 and Wilson Blake with 8. Filson was the big gun for Mercer with 19 points.

New Wilmington plays its second game of the season at West Middlesex Tuesday.

Score by halves:
New Wilmington 11 25 36
Mercer 11 21 32

Officials: Marks, Hoskins.

Rochester Royals Defeat Warriors

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—(INS)—The Rochester Royals are making a habit of whipping the Philadelphia Warriors on "foul" tries from the foul line last night and defeated the Warriors for the seventh straight time.

The score: Rochester 82, Warriors 79.

All-America Vern Gardner of Utah dropped in 23 points to lead both teams.

MARYLAND WHIPS MIAMI U. 13-0

MIAMI, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Maryland's Gator Bowl-bound Terrapins completed their 1949 season last night by overcoming a fighting Miami hurricane eleven 13 to 0 before 34,286 fans in the Orange Bowl.

The Terps' vicious ground attack subdued the Hurricanes, who wilted under the strain in the first and fourth periods to permit Maryland scores.

Philadelphia Eagles Meet Giants Sunday

By JOHN McCAFFERTY
(International News Service Sports Writer)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Score will be incidental tomorrow when the champion Philadelphia Eagles clash at the Polo Grounds with the up-and-coming New York Giants.

Soon after the initial kickoff between the National League's eastern division kings and the second place Giants, records are likely to start toppling all over the gridiron.

The first time Steve Van Buren, the Eagle's supersonic halfback, gets his mitts on the pigskin, for example, he'll try to whom his way to a new NFL ground-gaining record.

The former Louisiana star ace, one of football's greatest all-time runners, needs a mere 12 yards to eclipse his own 1947 mark of 1,008 yards for one season.

Steelers Vs. Bears
If Steve matches last Sunday's performance against the Pittsburgh Steelers—or even if he's only a shade that sensational—he'll have no trouble blasting through the Giants' defenses for his new rushing record.

In other National League games, a rather dismal card is on tap. The Los Angeles Rams are about to win the western division crown, which makes such titanic billings as Green Bay at Washington and the New York Bulldogs at Detroit more or less for Sweeney.

The Rams are home to the Chicago Cardinals, football's mystery men.

Coach Gonet announced the release of three players: Bob Carlson, at his request, Vince Kelley, and Jack Morrow.

Union High Tops Darlington, 55-34

Union high school opened its 1949-50 basketball season last night on Union high floor with a 55-34 victory over Darlington.

Frank Presnar led the Scotland Laners in scoring with 18 points followed by Arsen Ross with 10 and Ronnie May with 8. Casey paced Darlington with 11 points.

The Blue and White eagles meet Darlington again Tuesday in a return engagement at Darlington.

In the preliminary game St. George defeated the Union Junior Varsity 24-21. Koginos was high scorer for St. George with 11 points and Dick Pitzer paced the JV's with 10.

Score by halves:
Union 20 35 55

There's extra protection for your family in a Concrete Masonry Home

... it affords protection from ...

FIRE. Concrete can't burn! That's important when you consider that every two minutes somewhere in America someone's house goes up in flames. Don't take chances! Protect your family and prized possessions by building with fireproof concrete.

TERMITES. They can't penetrate concrete. Guard against this insect that can literally eat your house from under you. Build your house with concrete foundations, walls and sub floors. You'll save on repair dollars and free yourself from worry.

STORMS. Sturdy, durable concrete is weather-resistant. It turns back wind, rain, hail, storms and twisters. You'll enjoy security and real peace of mind in a concrete house that provides lifelong protection from so many destructive forces.

HIGH UPKEEP. Being durable and weather-tight, a concrete house needs fewer repairs, less maintenance. Over the years a concrete house costs less because moderate first cost plus low maintenance expense, divide long years of service, equals low annual cost.

Hungarian Family Arrives In New Castle To Reside

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kandiko and 14-year-old son, Istvan (Stephen), Hungarian refugees, arrived in New Castle Thursday evening.

The Kandikos, who were brought to this country by the International Relief organization through the efforts of the St. Joseph Convent in McKeesport, will make their home in the city.

One son, Louis, and his wife came to New Castle about a month ago and have obtained household employment with a local family.

Mr. Kandiko was a shoemaker in Hungary and has been promised work in a local shoe repair store.

The family originally had their home in Veszprem, Hungary, which is beyond the Danube river. The Germans took them from there in March of 1945, however, to dig trenches for the soldiers, and they were unable to return to their home because of the destruction from bombing.

Trek Through Germany
They then started on a trek through Germany that lasted over four years and saw them shoveling from city to city until finally they were brought to United States.

After leaving their home they were taken to Germany, where they lived in a boxcar with about 50 other people until they were brought to New Castle, Pa., in May, 1949.

At that time they were put into temporary homes in Ramedding, and from there they were moved to Pocking, Esens, Braunsweig Ventorf, Grom and finally Bremenhafen, from where they left for this country on November 19, 1949.

They had no opportunity to return to their homeland after the war because the Russian occupation forces did not permit anyone to enter or leave the country.

The boat that they came to America on, the U.S.S. General Sturgis, a troop transport, arrived in Boston, November 30, with 1313 displaced persons aboard. They were met at the dock by the Red Cross, who gave them coffee, doughnuts and cakes.

They were expected in New Castle Tuesday but were held up in Boston for two days because of the processing necessary. They finally made it here Thursday, coming in from Pittsburgh by way of the Pennsylvania railroad where they were met by Nicholas Vargo.

Istvan, the young son, was greatly impressed by the city's display of Christmas lights as they were driven through the city on the way to the Vago home.

The family is at present staying at the Vago home, 618 Lutton street, but are very crowded and greatly in need of a room, or rooms, with cooking facilities.

Prayer 'Cells' To Be Formed In City

Plans Being Furthered For World Day Of Prayer Observance February 24

Plans for the promotion of the World Day of Prayer conference in New Castle are being furthered by a committee of the United Council of Church Women, an organization that sponsors the outstanding occasion of the religious world.

Various congregations of this city and surrounding districts are joining in a service at the First Methodist church the first Friday in Lent, February 24.

Letters, asking for names of representatives of the different churches, have been sent to ministers of New Castle and outskirts of the city. Seven of the letters have been answered by the return card enclosed. The committee of arrangements wishes the pastors to return the cards by Saturday, December 10, so that further plans may be made.

A series of pre-prayer "cells" is being planned along with other special features. Members of all congregations are to remember the World Day of Prayer in their daily devotional periods. The committee arranging for the world-wide observance in this city is headed by Mrs. J. F. Rentz. It is anticipated that a large number of people of churches all over Lawrence county will participate in the service here.

State Farm Show Of 1950 Scheduled To Be 'Greatest'

HARRISBURG, Dec. 3.—(INS)—The 1950 Pennsylvania Farm Show will be the greatest in its 34 year history. Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst predicted today.

"The 1950 Farm Show will be colossal," Horst declared. "All we need is good weather like we had for the past three shows."

The exposition opens January 9 and runs five nights and four days.

To date registrations point to the biggest exhibition in livestock. More than 4,500 birds will be shown in the poultry exhibit, making it the largest of its kind in the country, according to Horst.

The total number of competitive exhibits at the show, including all kind of animals, fruit, grains, vegetables and home economics, will exceed 10,000, Horst said.

Commercial displays will bulge the 4-acre exhibition hall. These will include machinery, barn equipment, seed, feeds, fertilizers, home appliances and scores of other items.

City Hall Janitor Weighs Problem

William Pilliant, chief of city hall janitors, is much perturbed. He's in a quandary all because over a course of years he has collected a large number of calendars which form his art gallery in the janitorial bureau. There are all kinds of calendars in his collection.

Some show hunting scenes in which hunters face bears, fishermen with fine "catches" and also others which show feminine pulchritude to its best advantage, such as "gals" posing and "girlies" dancing.

There is no space in the new city hall for an art gallery, hence Mr. Pilliant is puzzled as to whether to "will" the art gallery to friends or consign the gallery to the scrap pile.
